Rooted in a strengths-based and family-centered approach, this template provides a visual and practical tool to evaluate whether children are safe, and if their needs are being met effectively. This article explores the significance of the Signs of Safety 3 Houses Template, its key components, how to recognize safety indicators, and how this model can be applied to improve outcomes for vulnerable children and families.

Understanding the Signs of Safety 3 Houses Template

What Is the Signs of Safety 3 Houses Template?

The Signs of Safety 3 Houses Template is a visual framework that represents three critical domains or "houses" essential for a child's safety and well-being:

- Safety House: Focuses on immediate safety and protection from harm.
- Stability House: Addresses the stability of the child's living situation and relationships.
- Well-being House: Concerns the child's overall health, education, emotional, and developmental needs.

This model encourages practitioners to assess each "house" thoroughly, identify strengths and risks, and develop targeted intervention plans. The visual nature of the template facilitates clear communication with families, stakeholders, and the children themselves.

Why Is the Signs of Safety Approach Important?

The approach emphasizes collaboration, safety planning, and a strengths-based perspective. It shifts away from solely focusing on risks and deficits, instead highlighting existing strengths and resources that can be leveraged to improve safety and well-being. The 3 Houses Template supports:

- Holistic assessment of family situations
- Clear identification of safety concerns
- Structured safety planning and intervention
- Enhanced engagement with families

Key Components of the Signs of Safety 3 Houses Template

1. Safety House

The Safety House represents the child's immediate safety and protection. Key elements include:

- Actions required to eliminate or reduce safety threats

Recognizing signs within this house involves observing both overt and subtle cues that suggest a child's safety might be compromised, such as physical injuries, behavioral changes, or unsafe environments.

2. Stability House

The Stability House evaluates the consistency and reliability of the child's living arrangements and relationships. Components include:

- Secure housing and environment
- Predictability in daily routines
- Healthy relationships with caregivers and family members
- Absence of ongoing conflicts or instability

Signs indicating stability issues may involve frequent moves, caregiver neglect, or strained family relationships, which can jeopardize the child's sense of security.

3. Well-being House

The Well-being House focuses on the child's overall health and developmental needs, including:

- Physical health and medical care
- Educational engagement and success
- Emotional and psychological health
- Access to community resources and support

Indicators of concerns in this domain include developmental delays, emotional distress, or lack of access to necessary services.

Signs of safety in this house include:

- Absence of injuries or visible harm
- Child reports feeling safe and protected
- Caregivers demonstrate protective behaviors
- Effective safety plans are in place and followed

- Consistent routines and caregiving practices
- Positive and supportive relationships
- Minimal caregiver conflicts or disruptions

Stability signs are often observed through family routines, the child's behavior, and the home environment. Instability signs include frequent relocations, caregiver mental health issues, or familial conflicts.

Signs of good well-being include:

- Child's physical health is maintained
